Digital precision and ergonomic design make Digit-Smart the intelligent choice in hand tools

There's a smart new choice in friction weld hand tools thanks to M. J. Maillis UK Ltd., the Nottingham-based complete end-of-line packaging solutions specialists.

Called Digit-Smart, and boasting digital control touch pad, ergonomic design - and a weight of just 3.8kg including battery - this all-new friction weld tool has been designed specifically to minimise the occurrence of hand and arm-type injuries resulting from prolonged or repetitive use – and will also simplify the strapping process.

Suitable for use with both polypropylene and polyester strapping, Digit-Smart models feature simple, reliable digital adjustment of strap tension and seal time, and are suitable for strap widths of 10mm – 16mm (0.5mm to 1.0mm thick). Maximum tension is 2000N.

Well-balanced and self-supporting, to allow extremely comfortable single-handed operation, the Digit-Smart tool is suitable for use on all flat-pack type applications.

Quality assured

With ISO 9002 accreditation, M. J. Maillis UK offers its customers dedicated engineering support and a nationwide service network for tools and equipment, as well as a full technical support and information service.
